INVESTMENT MIX (February 29, 2016)

How risky is it?

The value of the fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge risk is to look at how much the fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility".

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

CADO has rated the volatility of this fund as low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the fund's returns, see the "What are the Risks of Investing in a Mutual Fund?" section of the fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

How has the fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A shares of the fund have performed over the last four calendar years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the fund's returns.

Year by year returns

This chart shows how Series A shares of the fund performed in each of the past four calendar years. The fund has increased in value in each of the four calendar years. This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A shares of the fund in a 3-month period over the past 4 years. The best and worst 3-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	3 months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period

An individual who invested $1,000 in Series A shares of the fund since its inception would have $1,233 on February 29, 2016. This works out to an annual compound return of 4.98%.

Who is this fund for?

This fund is appropriate, as part of a diversified portfolio, for investors seeking income in a manner that is consistent with the preservation of capital. It would be suitable, therefore, for investors with low to medium tolerance for risk.

This fund is not appropriate for investors who are unwilling to accept fluctuations in the market value of their investment.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether or not you hold the fund in a registered plan such as a Registered Retirement Savings Plan or a Tax-Free Savings Account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A shares of the fund. The fees and expenses – including any commissions – can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You have to choose a sales charge option when you buy the fund. Ask about the pros and cons of each option.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the fund's returns. As of November 30, 2015, the fund's expenses were 7.10% of its value. This equals $71 for every $1,000 invested.

The fund will also pay an incentive fee to CADO equal to 20% of the amount by which the fund outperforms its benchmark, which is the Dow Jones Canada Select Dividend Total Return Index. If the fund underperforms its benchmark for a period, then the incentive fee will not be payable in respect of the fund until such time as the performance of the fund relative to its benchmark has exceeded that deficiency, nor will any incentive fee be paid for a period where the returns of both the fund and its benchmark are negative.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you.

CADO pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.
