FUND PERFORMANCE REVIEW

The Maple Leaf Resource Class Fund (the "Fund") is well diversified (see pie chart below) through common share equity positions in 60 Canadian resource companies and warrants on 14 resource company stocks. The first 6 months of 2013 saw the continuation of the trends from the past two years, notably strong performance in dividend paying stocks and poor showing of sectors geared to global growth, namely the resource sectors, though near the end of this period domestic cyclical sectors started to outperform. Continuing concerns on the slowing of the emerging market economies and the European debt crisis weighted on the materials sector especially base metals. The gold equities had been relatively resilient for the first part of the year but corrected sharply as the US economy started to show signs of renewed growth while inflation remained subdued. Energy sectors, on the other hand, posted positive returns as natural gas price rebounded from the bottom. Yet despite all the gloom and doom, economic growth has gained traction in the US, China has stabilized, and Europe is climbing back from a prolonged recession. With headwinds from politics abating, selected resource sectors should perform well in 2013, especially the natural gas, uranium and some base metals. The manager continued to adjust the portfolio to improve liquidity and quality while maintaining exposure to favored commodities. As at June 30, 2013, the Funds Inception Return was down -25.41% performing in-line with the resource markets and natural resource funds. The Fund's NAV as at June 30, 2013 is $5.8201 per Unit, which represents a YTD rate of return -26.07% which is in-line with our peer group.
