INVESTMENT RESTRICTIONS AND GUIDELINES

The Partnership has developed certain investment guidelines which govern the Québec Portfolios' investment activities. These investment guidelines provide, among other things, that the Québec Portfolio will invest pursuant to the following guidelines:

QUÉBEC CLASS TYPE OF INVESTMENT	INVESTMENT GUIDELINES (% of Net Asset Value at the date of investment)
➤ Resource Companies listed on a stock exchange.	100%
➤ Resource Companies listed and posted for trading on the TSX.	At least 10%
➤ Resource Companies with a market cap of at least $10 million.	At least 50%
➤ Investment in any one Resource Company.	Not more than 20%
➤ Investment in any one Resource Company with a market cap below $25 million.	Not more than 10%

SECTOR OVERVIEW

The Investment Manager believes the resource sectors will continue to generate strong returns in the long term, as supply networks continue to be hampered by structural under investment in the past, while demand has grown exponentially due to the emergence of new economic centers outside traditional developed regions. The resulting imbalance will only be corrected over time, with generally higher commodity prices serving as the market signal. In addition, commodity prices are generally denominated in US dollars and the US dollar remains in a long term downtrend as economic power has been gradually shifting elsewhere. All else being equal, prices in US dollar terms will need to rise to compensate for this decline, further adding to the upward momentum. Wider acceptance of commodities as a legitimate asset class may also increase investment demand for commodities in general.

The main resource sectors that the Partnership will invest in are as follows:

RESOURCE	INVESTMENT RATIONALE

PRECIOUS METALS	Gold and other precious metals have a number of uses in today's economy, but fundamentally their main role is to act as hedges against uncertainties: for example, war, famine, recession, financial crisis and currency fluctuations. Given the many issues facing today's investors, this "safe haven" function becomes increasingly important, as evident in the growing popularity of exchange traded funds investing directly in gold. According to the GFMS Annual Gold Survey: World Supply and Demand 2012, as production fails to grow with lower grades and higher costs, currently approximately 36% percent of the annual demand for gold is met by above ground sources. This results in the price of gold becoming increasingly sensitive to investors' perception of risks. The sovereign debt crisis and the global economic slowdown increase the need and urgency for hedging. The depreciating US dollar and low/negative real interest rates also makes gold more attractive. Even though gold has risen strongly over the last few years, it remains far below its previous peak when inflation is taken into account. This is in sharp contrast with many other commodities. The prospect of a slow recovery in the global economy and resultant higher interest rates will probably keep gold range bound for the near term, but liquidity is still ample and major industrialized countries continue to spend beyond their means, setting gold up for future upside. Shares in gold producers have not kept up with the metal thus far due to various operational issues, but the performance is set to improve as the uptrend in gold bullion resumes and costs come under control.
------------------------	--

BASE METALS, BULK AND OTHER MATERIALS	Demand for base metals is more sensitive to the current state of global economy as compared with other commodities. It is important not to over-emphasize the influence of the US for metal demand. According to the London Metal Exchange and Economist Intelligence Unit, even though the US remains a large consumer of base metals, developing countries, especially China, are now much more critical. The Investment Manager expects that an economic slowdown should it occur will affect the demand for base metals, but the impact on different metals varies. For example, due to the continuing need to build up infrastructure in developing countries, demand for steel continues to be strong. This in turn benefits prices of iron ore and coking coal, two of the inputs for making steel. Nickel, on the other hand, has suffered from the availability of alternative feed sources, but its price had declined to a point where nickel was again considered attractive. With the exception of aluminium and zinc, inventories are generally low relative to consumption, which bodes well for an eventual upturn when the global economy resumes its strong growth. The Investment Manager expects nuclear power to continue to play an important role as a stable large scale energy source in the foreseeable future. The Investment Manager believes that the market for uranium (the primary input in the nuclear process) will face a growing supply deficit until new mine production can be implemented. In addition, the Investment Manager believes that recent decreases in inventory levels, the recognition by Russia of its own internal need for uranium supply resulting in Russia becoming a net importer and the construction of approximately 40 new commercial reactors over the next 10 to 15 years will exacerbate this shortfall. As the negative impact of the Fukushima nuclear incident lessens over time, the Investment Manager believes that the long term fundamentals of the uranium market remain sound.

SECTOR OVERVIEW (CONTINUED)

ENERGY The key differentiating factor for energy commodities is that they are largely non-renewable. Once consumed, it is very difficult to reuse / recycle units of energy. Given the finite amount of resources in the ground, coupled with increasing demand in conjunction with general economic growth, the Investment Manager believes it will become increasingly difficult to maintain the status quo. Either supply has to increase, or demand has to be rationed. Rather than being the product of rampant speculation, higher energy prices merely serve as the signal to bring supply and demand back into balance. We are not running out of energy; rather, we are running out of cheap energy.

Oil and natural gas production is subject to constant decline once commenced. For example, according to the International Oil Energy Agency monthly report, current annual oil production stands at 92 million barrels per day. At an average annual decline rate of 5%, 4.6 million barrels per day of production or 1.7 billion barrels each year will have to be replaced. This is a monumental task even without the annual demand growth of about 1 million barrels per day. The challenge is made increasingly difficult by the renewed wave of resource nationalism which restricts access to untapped resources and increases costs of doing business for major oil companies. The recent development of shale oil in North America merely shifted the regional distribution of supply without fundamentally changing the overall picture. The Investment Manager believes as the world depends upon just a few energy exporters, any production disruptions, geopolitical or otherwise, may cause spikes in energy prices. Even though the pace of demand growth has slowed, supply growth remains slow and the market balance remains very tight. North American natural gas, on the other hand, though improving, will likely remain depressed until the impact of rapidly growth shale gas production can be absorbed by increasing industrial and power demand. This process has been ongoing. With signs of lower spending and depressed rig counts for natural gas, the turning point could come in the next 12 to 18 months. Another important source of energy is coal. With advanced scrubbing technology, coal is maintaining its traditionally dominant role in the energy chain due to its cost competitiveness. There remains an abundance of coal reserves around the world, but coal production has been plagued by environmental restrictions, flooding, power shortages, and infrastructure limitations. Steady growth in power generation provides the long term backdrop for thermal coal demand. Coking coal, which is used in the production of steel, has been equally buoyed by strong demand for steels used in global infrastructure building.

SELECTED FINANCIAL ASPECTS

An investment in Units will have a number of tax implications for a prospective Subscriber. The following presentation has been prepared by the General Partner to assist prospective investors in evaluating the income tax consequences to them of acquiring, holding and disposing of Units and are not based upon an independent legal or accounting opinion. The presentation is intended to illustrate certain income tax implications to investors who are Québec resident individuals (other than trusts) who have purchased $5,000 of Units (200 Units) in the Partnership and who continue to hold their Units in the Partnership as of December 31, 2014. These illustrations are examples only and actual tax deductions may vary significantly. See "Risk Factors". The timing of such deductions may also vary from that shown in the table. Please see Offering Memorandum for the Québec Portfolios Selected Financial Aspects.

SELECTED FINANCIAL ASPECTS (CONTINUED)

NOTES AND ASSUMPTIONS: The calculations above are based on the estimates and assumptions described in the “Notes and Assumptions” included in the Offering Memorandum which form an integral part of the illustration. Please see Notes and Assumptions under the heading “Selected Financial Aspects” in the Offering Memorandum for the full text of the estimates and assumptions underlying the above calculations.

(1) For the Québec Portfolio, the calculations assume that the Offering expenses are $25,000 in the case of the minimum Offering and $125,000 in the case of the maximum Offering, that the operating and administration expenses are $52,083 in the case of the minimum Offering and $1,041,667 in the case of the maximum Offering over the lifetime of the Partnership, and that all Available Funds ($204,375 in the case of the minimum Offering and $4,522,500 in the case of the maximum Offering; see Item 1, “Use of Available Funds”) are invested in Flow-Through Shares of Resource Companies that, in turn, expend such amounts on CEE which are renounced to the Partnership with an effective date in 2014 and allocated to a Québec Limited Partner (as defined in Item 6, “Income Tax Consequences and RRSP Eligibility - Québec Income Tax Considerations”) and deducted by him or her in 2014.

(2) The calculations assume that 75% of Available Funds of the Québec Class will be invested in Flow-Through Shares issued by Resource Companies incurring CEE 100% in the Province of Québec. It is assumed that in 2014, 100% of the Available Funds expended to acquire Flow-Through Shares of Resource Companies incurring Eligible Expenditures in and outside of Québec will entitle a Limited Partner to the 15% federal non-refundable “flow-through mining expenditure” investment tax credit available to him or her in respect of certain “grass roots” mining CEE incurred or deemed to be incurred by a Resource Company before 2016 and renounced under Investment Agreements entered into before April 2015. It is assumed that the Limited Partner will be subject to tax on the recapture of the investment tax credit in 2015 (except for Québec provincial tax purposes). The investment tax credit is described in further detail in Note (2).

(3) Assumes only Class A National Class Units or Class A Québec Class Units, as applicable, are issued. These amounts relate to costs incurred by the Partnership, including the Agents’ fees and offering expenses (including travel, sales and marketing expenses), which are pro-rated as described in Note (4), and the estimated operating and administrative expenses. Both calculations assume that the Partnership will realize sufficient capital gains to permit it to pay any operating and administrative expenses in excess of those funded by the Operating Reserve.

(4) Subject to Note (3), Agents’ fees and offering expenses are deductible for purposes of the Tax Act at a rate of 20% per annum, pro-rated for short taxation years.

(5) Assumes no portion of the subscription price for the Units will be financed with a Limited Recourse Amount. See Item 6, “Income Tax Consequences and RRSP Eligibility - Canadian Federal Income Tax Considerations”.

(6) A Limited Partner may not claim tax deductions in excess of such Limited Partner’s “at-risk” amount.

(7) The calculations assume that the Limited Partner is not liable for alternative minimum tax. See Item 6, “Income Tax Consequences and RRSP Eligibility”.

(8) The amount of tax deductions, income or proceeds of disposition in respect of a particular Subscriber will likely be different from those depicted above.

(9) The calculations assume that 75% of Available Funds will be invested in Flow-Through Shares issued by Resource Companies incurring CEE 100% in the Province of Québec, and a Québec Limited Partner will be entitled to an additional 50% deduction in respect of his or her share of such CEE in computing the Québec Limited Partner’s income for Québec income tax purposes.

It is assumed that a Québec Limited Partner’s investment income exceeds his or her investment expenses for a given year. For these purposes, investment expenses include certain deductible interest and losses of the Partnership allocated to such Limited Partner and 50% of CEE (other than CEE incurred in Québec) renounced to the Partnership and allocated to and deducted for Québec tax purposes by such Limited Partner. If such a Québec Limited Partner’s investment expenses for a given year were to exceed the Limited Partner’s investment income for that year, the excess would not be deductible in the year for Québec tax purposes but may be deducted against investment income earned in any of the three previous taxation years and any subsequent taxation year to the extent investment income exceeds investment expenses for such other year.

(10) The calculations assume a federal marginal tax rate of 24.22% for Québec residents and a Québec provincial marginal tax rate of 25.75% for the Québec Class. The tax savings are calculated by multiplying the total estimated income tax deductions for each year by the assumed marginal tax rate for that year. The illustration assumes that the Subscriber has sufficient income so that the illustrated tax savings are realized in the year shown.

(11) The table does not take into account capital gains tax payable on disposition of Units or Mutual Fund Shares.

(12) The calculations assume there are capital gains realized on the sale of assets of the Partnership in order to pay operating and administrative expenses in excess of the Operating Reserve, as described in Note (3). The calculations do not take into account capital gains tax payable upon the disposition of Units or Mutual Fund Shares by Limited Partners.

(13) At-risk Capital (money at risk) is generally calculated as the total investment plus undistributed income less all anticipated income tax savings from deductions and the amount of any distributions. See Item 6, “Income Tax Consequences and RRSP Eligibility”.

(14) In calculating the capital gains tax and break-even proceeds of disposition for Québec provincial tax purposes, it is assumed that the individual Québec Limited Partner has a sufficient amount in his or her Expenditure Account (as defined in Item 6, “Income Tax Consequences and RRSP Eligibility - Québec Income Tax Considerations”) to enable the individual Québec Limited Partner to claim an exemption under the Québec Tax Act for the full taxable capital gain related to investments made in Québec realized on the disposition of the individual Québec Limited Partner’s initial investment.

(15) The calculations do not take into account the time value of money. Any present value calculation should take into account the timing of cash flows, the Subscriber’s present and future tax position and any change in the market value of the Portfolios, none of which can presently be estimated accurately by the General Partner.

(16) Downside Protection is calculated by subtracting break even proceeds of disposition from initial investment cost and then dividing by investment cost.

(17) The Minimum Equivalent Deduction is calculated as the sum of (i) the net income tax deduction (federal and Québec, as applicable) and (ii) the investment tax credit earned on CEE divided by the marginal tax rate (federal and Québec, as applicable). It represents the value of the tax deductions that would provide the same tax savings for the noted investment amount expressed as a percentage of the original investment of $5,000.
